

The Renovation Emotional Journey

It always feels fantastic to get the design process started. The only thing more exciting might be entering your newly renovated space after we've driven away! But what happens during the months in between?

